I also have plans to host an inter-uni hackathon and conference in London probably in the summer, as well as another bootcamp for serious devs.

Beyond that, I have very close ties with all London blockchain unis and there will be plenty of opportunity for collaboration between us to host events together including socials.

Also, expect to see a lot more collaboration between us and other societies at Imperial next year. We believe life is better for everyone when we pool each other resources where it makes sense to do so :)
