

I'm Matt, a Triathlon-Traitor, but there's a reason I'm running for ICXCAC Committee; XC has made a bigger impact on my first year, more memories, races, and more VK induced lack-of-memories...

Why should I join committee?

I am often first to volunteer to set-up events and races, and more than willing to commit any free time to the club (even if that means going to fewer gigs). I've demonstrated I will throw myself into lakes for the social secs, I'll pull all-nighters to attend races or socials and I'll stumble out of bed in Woodward to attend breakfast runs at ungodly hours on Sunday. Perhaps my efforts can be applied elsewhere, to run the club at the excellent standard it has been the last year.

I would bring the Army's Core Values - having had them drilled into me over 3 years - particularly Discipline, Respect, Integrity, Loyalty and Selfless Commitment. Additionally I hold an ILM level 5, and several military leadership qualifications ideal for leading the club.

What can I bring to HPR?

I would ensure HPR runs with military precision; although more qualified to overthrow the union, or invade St George's, the same skills are required to organise, plan and communicate. Planning exercises are a staple training task for lazy instructors in the army. And with the races over, you can guarantee the army has shown me how to host a party, smash pints and start doing push-ups against the BOYS captain. After all, I must "Be The Best"...
